JOIN THE AIM HIGH AMBASSADOR COUNCIL

The Aim High Ambassador Council, launching in the fall of 2019, is collective of business, philanthropic and educational leaders in Northern California who care deeply about educational equity, share a passion for expanding educational opportunities and a belief that summer learning is a solution.

PURPOSE

Members volunteer to be champions of Northern California's largest summer learning and enrichment program and advance our mission via their professional expertise; connections to local and national resources, colleagues or peers; philanthropic support and/or other forms of guidance and assistance. The Ambassador Council members will also have access to exclusive events, program updates and organizational leadership.

BENEFITS

Being an Aim High Ambassador is an excellent way to give back to the community, learn more about our work and help us achieve our goal of propelling more Bay Area students to high school, college and career success. It is also a great way to meet and connect with like-minded leaders.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Ambassadors work independently and collectively to extend Aim High's reach and reputation as the premier summer learning provider in Northern California. Specific tasks include:

- Build our Brand and Visibility: Serve as a highly visible champion of Aim High's work and impact
- Broaden our Fundraising: Identify individual, corporate and foundation prospects, make connections.
- Serve as an Advisor: Serve as a thought partner for development and program leadership

COMMITMENT

The time commitment will vary depending on the bandwidth of each individual member. There will be opportunities to connect and engage with other Aim High Ambassadors and community members in person but board meetings and committee work will not be required. Members do agree to consult or advise, as needed, on organizational opportunities and challenges.
